

Irving Alday, PT, DPT, ATC, LAT

Irving lives in South Texas and resides in a small town called Alamo. He currently practices as a Physical Therapist in Edinburg, TX at the Doctors Hospital at Renaissance (DHR) Orthopedic and Sports Therapy Institute (OSTI). Recently, Irving was able to stand in front of a room filled with students to present about the field of Physical Therapy along with his journey to becoming a Physical Therapist at the very same High school that he graduated from. Prior to that event, he attended an Advancement Via Individual Determination (AVID) Program Presentation to demonstrate to high school students about different professions they can explore during or after college. Irving continues to impact his community and beyond through his passion for educating and connecting with our next future leaders.

Irving serves as a PT Moves Me Ambassador. Are you interested in learning more about how to become a PT Moves Me Ambassador? Contact Lindsey Green (lgreen@tpta.org) at the TPTA office for more information.

